

PATENT

ABSTRACT

On-the-shelf retail inventories are managed by periodically processing point-of-sale data to determine the number of units that

5 have been sold during a specified period, and comparing the number of units that have been sold to a historical value. An alert is issued to a store when the difference between the comparison indicates that certain items are not selling at the expected rate.

10

10518521v1
076883-0268936
-22